TeleHealth Services

North Central Health Care offers a service that allows modern technology to facilitate care between clients, nurses and doctors, as if they are in the same room even though they may be miles apart. No matter where the patient lives, he or she should have access to high quality speciality care.

North Central Health Care's TeleHealth Services will allow care close to home, giving clients the opportunity of seeing, hearing and talking to a healthcare provider at a distant location by a secured video conferencing connection. All clinical consultations are interactive real time.

How Does TeleHealth Work?

During a TeleHealth session, clients will be able to talk, hear and see the provider just as they would during a face-to-face visit. North Central Health Care staff will explain:

- How the equipment works
- The steps that have been taken to ensure privacy and that health record are maintained according to the law and North Central Health Care policies and procedures
- The roles of individuals attending and introduce clients to individuals who will be present in the local sites as well as those at the distant sites
- A client's right to request non-essential people be excluded from TeleHealth sessions

Benefits of TeleHealth

TeleHealth provides access to specialized healthcare providers. It also decreases a client's time spent away from home or work. High quality care can be given without lengthy travel or the expense and risks associated with it.

What Can I Expect During a TeleHealth Session?

Clients will be accompanied by North Central Health Care staff to the TeleHealth room, which is equipped with the video conferencing equipment needed to connect providers and clients. The provider and client may then speak to each other as though they were in the same room. Normally the provider and client are the only individuals present. If there is need for additional personnel to be present, clients will be required to grant permission.

What Are the Alternatives to TeleHealth?

Participation is completely voluntary. If clients do not wish to participate, they may choose to access services according to other methods available from North Central Health Care. This may involve waiting to see a provider or traveling to see a professional in another location.

Accessible Care

North Central Health Care serves residents in the counties of Marathon, Langlade and Lincoln. With such a large geographical area, it is important for treatment and recovery that there is access to these services close to home.

TeleHealth is available in each of the three counties North Central Health Care serves, with offices in Wausau, Antigo, Merrill and Tomahawk.
