North Central Health Care’s Youth Behavioral Health Hospital is the first step in life-changing care and treatment for young people between the ages of 13-17 who are experiencing a mental health or substance use crisis. Under the direction of a psychiatrist and other licensed medical and professional staff, our hospital provides 24-hour care in a secure setting that provides a safe and healthy environment where healing can begin.

The Youth Hospital provides short-term therapeutic interventions by reducing and stabilizing a child’s crisis and linking them to the necessary care that will help manage their illness and help them better navigate their world.

Each child is unique, and therefore so is their care and treatment.

Treatments

Admission to the Hospital

All patients admitted into the Youth Behavioral Health Hospital must be referred through the North Central Health Care Crisis Center. Upon arrival at the Crisis Center, youth are taken to a safe, secure setting where deescalation can begin and an assessment takes place by youth care professionals. Youth who can be discharged safely will have resources in place to provide treatment as needed. Each child, and each situation, is treated uniquely and youth are referred to the appropriate level of care based on the assessment of the Youth Crisis team.

Our therapist may initiate one-to-one sessions, however our entire team will work with your child on setting daily goals and learning new skills to help them cope through group therapy, individual contact, and recreational and therapeutic activities.

Group - Group therapy is a treatment that uses social interactions to examine mental health issues and learn new skills. Group topics are determined by the participant’s needs. Topics may include social skills, coping skills, self-expression, life skills, or anger management.

Team or Family Meetings - The goal of family meeting is to gather family perspectives of your child’s needs and to involve the family with discharge planning.
